

WE NOMINATE

Lawrence Heyl, Princeton University's self-effacing Associate Librarian and one of the perceptive bookmen of this century, who during the week past—with the fanfare generated by the annual dinner of the University Library Staff Association—completed 42 years of distinguished service to the community which is Princeton. As well as any other living Princetonian, this 68-year old administrator, with a marked capacity for the smiling, wry remark, senses all that has transpired here over the past several decades as Princeton, N. J., cast off its parochialism to become a catalytic force in the forward movement of the "industry of education and research."

It is noteworthy that the New York-born Heyl, the son of a well-known book-dealer and an alumnus of City College of New York, has been closely associated with three of the University's outstanding librarians. His contributions led the present librarian, William Shepherd Dix, recent chairman of this country's UNESCO Commission, to comment: "In his period of service, the Library added more volumes than in the 170 years of its growth before 1920. His knowledge of books, his skill in matching needs against available resources, and his dedication have clearly been dominant factors in making this one of the country's major research libraries."

An apprenticeship in the book trade preceded Heyl's entrance into education. The late James Thayer Gerould, then librarian at the University of Minnesota, was in need of an order department head and wanted a "book man" as opposed to a professionally trained librarian. Heyl accepted the post and in 1915 headed for Minneapolis. Five years later, when Gerould was bid by Princeton, he asked Heyl to accompany him as Chief of the Acquisitions Department, a title Heyl was to hold until 1937 and responsibilities he was to shoulder during the crowded years marked by the Library's movement into the Firestone building and the development of the concept of a library serving as a "humanistic laboratory."

Heyl, a founding officer of the Friends of the Princeton Library and for the past 23 years an editorial board member and departmental head of the "Princeton Library Chronicle," has long been involved in the affairs of the Conference of Eastern College Librarians. Indicative of his standing in his profession are the committee assignments he has handled over the past quarter-century. A former chairman of the Conference's Out-of-Print Project, he has been concerned with the libraries' relationships with publishers, has done yeoman's work as a member of the Acquisitions Committee of the American Library Association, and has represented the colleges on the Committee for the Study of Copyright.

Deeply interested in "good music" and the theater, and in yesteryear active in the Princeton Community Players, the soft-spoken Heyl was singled out for the highest kind of praise at the Annual Meeting of the Friends of the Library. Citing his judgment with respect to new acquisitions, his grasp of the fields in need of bolstering, and his understanding of the whims of book collectors, the Friends emphasized: "He has steered us skillfully between the Scylla of extravagance and the Charybdis of parsimony and we owe more to his care and watchfulness, his ripe judgment and experienced touch, than we can hope to put into words."

For his role in the controlled growth of a library which today serves scholars from all parts of the world; for his capacities for anticipating both institutional and individual needs; for dedicating his career to the belief that "no man-made structure outlives a book"; he is TOWN TOPICS' nominee as the same time provide adequate parking spaces to comply with the ordinance.

Only the Borough, they argue, can condemn property to acquire sufficient parking space. Modern office buildings, they say, bring a tax revenue that shares the burden with the average taxpayer, and forestall the growing deterioration of the downtown area.

In other decisions, the Zoning Board approved the relocation of Woodrow Wilson School in connection with the relocation of Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs, designed by Minoru Yamasaki. Also approved were the applications of Mather Funeral Home for a one-story extension in the rear; and of Fred Dudley Johnson to bring a porch closer to the side line and erect a lowered screen wall.

STATEMENT DENIED
By Rohrer On Schools
Graham Rohrer, president of the Borough Board of Education, denied this week that he had told Richard Pearson, chairman of the Township Board, that Princeton would need two high schools by 1970.

At the June 21 meeting of the Township Board, Mr. Pearson had said, "Mr. Rohrer and I agree that Princeton will need two high schools by 1968 or early 1970."

"That is a statement that I did not make and for which there is no basis in fact," Mr. Rohrer said. "The Borough Board of Education still retains a large measure of control over high school population through the number and length of contracts with several sending districts whose students make up the total enrollment."

Mr. Rohrer cited the notice sent to Montgomery Township and Hopewell Borough informing them that Princeton High School could accept no new students from these municipalities after 1965, and said this actually provides us with sufficient capacity to accommodate students from Borough and Township well within the planned capacity of our existing facilities during this period."

In a letter to Robert R. Palmer concerning Mr. Palmer's presentation of a petition to the Board requesting a merger study, Mr. Rohrer said, "Our Board has formally agreed to arrange with the Township Board a formal and impartial study made by outside experts which would accomplish the primary objective of the petition."

ROUND-UP

A goal of $32,797 was announced this week by Fred M. Johnson, chairman of the Joint Campaign Committee for the United Fund-Red Cross drive in the fall — the sum includes $38,371 for the Red Cross and is, in addition, about 10 percent higher for Fund agencies than the $250,000 quota sought last year.

Top dollar allocation will go to Princeton Hospital, which is budgeted for $50,000; next in line is the YMCA, $39,314, followed by the Red Cross, the YWCA, $31,931; the Family Service Agency, $27,120; Princeton Nursery School, $21,332; and Child Guidance Center, $18,512.

The other day a friend was telling us some interesting facts that are not so well known about bees, at least

Cow S. Kammer knows as the one that couples the bees with the flowers. One of the things that we didn't know was that some species of tropical bees produce a poisonous honey. Another one we didn't know was that good honey is not the exclusive product of bees but that many species of wasps, and some ants also produce a good honey. It is said that there is one species that must be pretty smart because they literally make a bed of roses. They line their nests with cuttings from rose leaves and petals. There are thousands of varieties of bees but only four families, two of which are the honeybees and the humblebees, the types most of us are familiar with, that live in highly regimented colonies, and live by strict rules of government within their colonies. Their honey has been one of man's delicacies from ancient times. There are indications that the earliest Egyptians and Greeks practiced beekeeping and noted their example of good organization in their work and lives. So they have been an industrious model for us for many centuries, and in our business we try to follow their invariable object lesson for accomplishing good for others. DOG ORDINANCE REVISED
Now More "Liberal" The revised draft of the dog ordinance for the Township will permit dogs to run free on public streets provided they do not bite or create a nuisance.

The substance of the revision as it now stands, was outlined at Monday's meeting of Township Committee by Mayor R. Kenneth Fairman in response to questioning from Mrs. Sabina Palewosky of 65 Shadybrook Lane.

Mr. Fairman said the revised draft reflected a 3-2 vote in the Committee's thinking. The minority, he said, favor an ordinance that would require dogs to be leashed at all times unless accompanied by a responsible party. John S. Mount and John S. Jr., are the minority inclined toward total restraint.

Mr. Fairman said that "some-what more liberal" ordinance had been drafted by Township Attorney Gordon Griffin in accord with the majority view. That view, he said, is that, given a dog control officer, dogs from whom no complaint has been received may be stopped effectively upon receipt of complaints.

Mrs. Palewosky disrupted this view. She said a child "only has to be bitten once." She said she was "completely in favor" of the original ordinance. She added that dogs should be restrained "at least" during the hours that children walk to and from school.

Mr. Fairman said the new draft also makes it clear that dogs should be leashed and not imposed only after a hearing before a magistrate — not by policemen or a dog control officer acting independently. The new ordinance may possibly be introduced on July 16.

Mr. Fairman reported that the Planning Board has recommended against changing zoning laws to permit light industry in the Township. He said the recommendation was based on a finding that the Township would not benefit economically from such a change.

The board, he said, found that the cost of providing services to light industry would not be offset by additional tax revenues. It also found that rapid development of an area for light industry would require too great an initial capital outlay.

Mr. Fairman named a three-member committee to prepare a report for Committee's next meeting setting forth facts and figures to support these findings.

The text of the Planning Board's recommendation was not made public Monday. Rather, the substance of the recommendation was summarized by Mr. Fairman. He said the special report for the next meeting will be issued as a press release.

Two years ago the Township admitted its first light industry when it granted a special permit to the now bankrupt Princeton Electronics Corp. for construction of a pilot plant at 178 Alexander Street, Dorset Princeton Research Center, Inc., is now at that location.

Joseph Nial, administrator, said the special permit still has a year to run. After that time, he said, the Dorset firm, if determined to be light industry, "will either have to move out of the Township or apply for a continuation of the permit for some period of time."

Committee voted 5-0 to provide sewer service to the Hillside Avenue area by a sub-trunk sewer in Hillside Avenue and Route 206 to a pumping station and force main via Herrontown Road. The cost of the facilities was estimated at $285,000.

This plan was chosen after two less expensive alternatives involving a temporary treatment plant were rejected. Committeeman John S. Mount said the pumping station would be the "soundest investment in the future of the Township, rather than a specific monetary solution."

Committee set for July 23 a public hearing on a recommendation from the Zoning Board that Dr. Arnold B. Lambert of 474 Rosedale Road be granted a variance to build a dentist's office at 204 North Harrison Street in a residential zone.

The action was taken only after argument concerning the propriety of Committee's rehearing cases that have already been decided by the Zoning Board. The vote to hold the hearing was 4-1. Committeeman William L. Wilson cast the lone negative vote.

Mr. Griffin said no new evidence could be introduced on review of a Zoning Board decision at a public hearing. Rather, he said, the Committee would have to base its decision on the record that had been before the Zoning Board, which is the "trial court" in this instance.

Committee voted unanimously to award a $3905 contract to Aero Service Corp. of Philadelphia for the preparation of an aerial topographic map. It also voted unanimously to purchase two trucks from International Harvester Co. at a cost of $15,300, lowest of four bids.

Mr. Nini reported a reduction of one-quarter of one percent in the interest rate which the Township owes for debts outstanding. The reduction, he said, brings the overall rate down to two and one-half percent.

Mr. Griffin reported that after investigation it was his opinion that the Borough is not ready to enter into a joint recreation commission with the Township as such commissions are defined by statute.

"MANSERGROVE" DENIED
Apartments Rejected. The proposed 125-apartment "Mansergrove Gardens" project was turned down this week by the Township Zoning Board. The apartments were planned by Mr. and Mrs. Horatio Turner for 10 1/2 acres of their land between Jefferson and Mt. Lucas Roads with a stub fronting on Valley Road. The land lies in the "R-2" residential zone in which multiple dwellings are not permitted, and the Turners had sought a variance of the zoning ordinance.

The Zoning Board also pointed out that Mr. and Mrs. Turner, in selling other parts of their land adjoining the proposed "Mansgrove," had insisted on deed restrictions requiring that the various properties be used only for single-family homes.

The question of an extension of Terhune Road through the Turner property was a matter of considerable discussion in the course of the "Mansgrove" hearings, because Mr. Turner maintained that the existence of this future road kept away potential builders of single-family homes.

The Zoning Board maintained that the Turners had never attempted to pinpoint the location of the road by applying to the Planning Board, which could have fixed the location in such a way that the property could have been developed for single-family homes.

Seymour Montomery, attorney for the Turners, said that the Zoning Board's decision was under study. He did not say whether his client would appeal.

"Mansgrove" was presented to the Zoning Board in a series of hearings starting October 19, 1961.

ACCIDENT KILLS FOUR

A fatal ture on their car on the New Jersey Turnpike brought death Tuesday to three members of a Kendall Park family. A trailer-truck seeking to avoid ramming them Jack-knifed, whiplashed into them and burst into flames.

The three Kendall Park residents killed were Mrs. Elizabeth Gardalla, 29, Palmer Road, and her two children, Mary Ann and Thomas. The truck driver, not immediately identified, also died in the crash.

John Gardalla, 41, husband and father of those killed, had stepped out of the car moments earlier and sought in vain to flag down the truck. He was uninjured, but in a state of extreme shock after witnessing the accident.

The crash occurred on the Holland Tunnel extension of the Turnpike. The highway has no shoulder on which vehicles requiring repairs may pull over, and Mr. Gardalla was forced to bring his car to a stop in the extreme west-bound lane.

CARS COLLIDE

Both Drivers Summoned. Elizabeth A. Zeno, 22, W. Roosevelt Boulevard, Philadelphia, and Harold A. Pearson, 39, 130 State Road, were each issued summonses following a collision of their cars Saturday afternoon on Bayard Lane at Avalon Place. A passenger in the Zeno car, Esther Youngkin, 45, of Manville, received a mild cerebral concussion and multiple contusions of the right arm, chest and face. She was admitted to Princeton Hospital.

Mr. Pearson, who was driving west on Avalon Place, told police he halted for the "stop" sign and then proceeded into the intersection. He was hit on the left side by Mrs. Zeno traveling north on Bayard Lane. Both cars were extensively damaged.

Ability to sprinkle when the rain isn't sprinkling should provide the proper incentive to just about everything in the garden.

That hose may be in use during the next few days, since the only prediction for any form of precipitation is possible showers Friday afternoon. It'll grow gradually warmer, too, but that traditional July heat and humidity isn't around yet.

Mr. Pearson was issued a summons for failing to yield after observing a "stop" sign. A careless driving summons was issued to Mrs. Zeno.

Child Triggers Crash. Distracted at the steering wheel when her baby slipped from the front seat, Mrs. Joyce S. Bush, 17, Camp Meeting Avenue, Skillman, veered to the right Friday morning and hit a parked car on Ewing Street, 100 yards from the intersection of Route 206.

News Of The THEATRES

NEW THEATRE TO OPEN

on Route One. The first new motion picture theatre in the Princeton area since 1937 will open next Wednesday with a 7 p.m. showing of "The Miracle Worker."

The Palmer Theatre on Route One in West Windsor, west of the Penns Neck traffic circle, will present two evening shows, one at 7 and one at 8 seven days a week, with a 6:30 box-office opening, and matinees Saturdays and Sundays.

Within the 650-seat theatre, customers will find air-conditioning, modern projection equipment capable of handling the largest commercial films and a seating arrangement that allows leg room for theatre-goers over six feet tall. Outside, there is ample parking on the paved lot.

The Palmer Theatre is operated by the Benar Amusement Center and is one of several drive-in and conventional theatres operated by the chain on the east coast.

The last motion picture house to be built in the environs of Princeton was the Princeton Playhouse on Palmer Square. It was opened to the public in 1937.

FAIRCE IS SCHEDULED

By Princeton Players. A witty French farce, "Pots of Money," by Labiche and Delacour, will open Tuesday at 8:30 as the second summer production of The Princeton Players. The Players' theatre is at 258 Nassau Street.

"Pots of Money" tells the story of a group of peasants who are traveling to Paris in the late 19th century. They fall prey to trickery and deceptions which provide ample room for social commentary as well as for high-spirited comedy.

George Nestor will appear in the role of Danne, bringing to the role the experience gained in off-Broadway productions of "Red Roses for Me," "Shadow of Heroes" and the two Ionesco plays "The Lesson" and "The New Tenant." Mr. Nestor has also appeared on TV in "The Sacco-Vanzetti Story" and "Moment of Fear."

Tom Marlett will appear as "Bourrey," Shirley Kauffman will play a marriage broker. James Hatch will be seen as "Chute" and Virginia de Angelis as "Leonida."

Other featured players will be Alan Raeburn, who is also appearing in "The Entertainer," Leo Cohen, who will be remembered as the philanthropist in "The Drunkard" and Lynn Milgrom, who comes to Princeton from Boston, where she appeared in "Ulysses in Night Town" at the Loeb Drama Center.

Tickets for "Pots of Money" and for "The Entertainer" may be reserved by calling the box-office, WA 4-4928.

"The Entertainer" will open the season this Thursday, running for four nights, through Sunday. Originally scheduled to open Monday night, "The ALUMNUS RETURNS: Jimmy Stewart goes bird-watching with a stuffy couple who turn out to be sneaky drinkers in "Mr. Hobbs Takes A Vacation" coming to the Playhouse next Wednesday.

"Entertainer" was postponed because the producer encountered difficulties in obtaining the right music for this music-hall drama. Because the music arrived so late, there were rehearsal problems, and the Players preferred to postpone the opening in the interests of a more polished performance.

LET'S TAKE A TRIP

Up-river For a Show. "The Miracle Worker," William Gibson's Broadway hit based on the childhood of Helen Keller, will open next Monday at the Bucks County Playhouse, New Hope, for a two-week run. "Write Me A Murder" will end its engagement this Saturday. Annette Hunt, who understudied the role of Annie Sullivan in the national tour of "The Miracle Worker," will play the little role and Rona Gale, recently featured with Helen Hayes in the Theatre Guild European tour of the play, will repeat her performance of Helen Keller.

Across the river in Lambertville, "Gypsy" will complete its run at the Music Circus this Sunday, to be followed on Tuesday by "Fiorello" which will run through July 13.

"Threepenny Opera" will run at the Circus from July 17 through 22 and "The Chocolate Soldier" from July 24 to 29. "West Side Story" will be presented from July 31 to August 12, followed by "Guys and Dolls" from August 14 to 19. "Bye, Bye Birdie" will close the season with a run from August 21 to September 2.

On the Monday night jazz schedule, the Circus will present Louis Armstrong next Monday and Count Basie on Monday, July 16. An American Folk Song Festival on July 23 and Maynard Ferguson on July 30 will bring the July Mondays to a close.

In August the Circus will present Les Brown on August 6; Gene Krupa and Ramsey Lewis on August 13; Duke Ellington on August 20 and Cannonball Adderley and Nancy Wilson on August 27.

Performances at the Circus are at 8:30 p.m., Saturdays at 6 and 8:30 p.m., and Sundays at 7:30. Monday night jazz concerts are 8:30 also.

THE PLAYHOUSE

Bon Voyage (July 4-10). Fred MacMurray, a skilled comedian, plays the role of daddy, who takes wife Jane Wyman and the three kids to Paris. The trip had been delayed for over 20 years because of this reason or that unexpected birth. MacMurray puts his worst foot forward at the sailing party where he gets drunk and tells some of his wife's new acquaintances that he is proud that he is a plumber. (Continued on Page 6)

STUDENTS PERFORM
In "Piano Laboratory," Demonstration classes and lessons featuring 35 Princeton piano students are being held through this week at The New School for Music Study, 353 Nassau Street, as part of a workshop for piano teachers.
The students are taking their regular piano lessons in front of 50 teachers who have come from all over the country for the two-week study course.

Ten beginning students is launched during the first week.
They are: Patrick Costello,
Laurie Bruschi, James Figg,
Jeannette Balestena, Fred Dal-
rymple, Ruth Gordon, Elise Reisman, Sam LaMar, Janet
Pearce and David Jaffe.

Students who had completed 34 weeks of study performed on June 27. They are Leonard Kinsler, Peter Kaumann,
Jay Seitz, James Delwiler,
Rusty Jones, Raymond Rosen
and James Lent. Seven boys and girls who had just completed their second year of piano study played last Thursday. They are Jeanne Favreau, Andrew Cheng, Louise Fleener, Cheryl Neach, Kathleen
Pretzfelder, John B. Trafeone, and David Vonnack. Third year students who performed
were Charles Ashton, Eugene Chang, Mary Holland and Leslie Reich.

Private students enrolled at the school have been playing this week for the visiting teachers. These students are a bringing-up-daddy show.

Mr. Hobbs Takes A Vacation
July 11-17, Jimmy Stewart,
Maureen O'Hara and Fabian star in this story of a family's wild vacation at the beach.
Miss O'Hara, as pretty as ever,
Ethan Gelbaum, Thomas

husband, wonderfully portrayed by Stewart, for a holiday
for two and rents a bungalow for the entire family, which also includes two married daughters, their respective husbands and offspring, as well as their 14-year-old daughter, Laurel Peters, and their youngest child, Michael Burns. The confusion mounts through the charming humorist, Reginald Gardiner, and Valerie Varda, who portrays a beach stren in pursuit of Stewart. Comment: slick comedy.

THE GARDEN

A Taste of Honey July 4-10
is a contribution from England, based on Siegfried Delancy's play of the same name.
It's about a young English girl,
Helen, who has sexual relations with a Negro sailor in London, becomes pregnant by him, and then is cared for by a homosexual lad she be-friends.

Newcomer Rita Tushingham
play Helen. Far from pretty she has a wonderfully expressive face which radiates sincerity and joy of living. Dora Bryan as her vulgar and brassy mother turns in an excellent performance, as does Murray Melvin as the man that Helen takes under her wing. Comment: the material is inflammable, the treatment is subdued.

The Cabinet of Caligari July 11-17 has elements of weirdness and horror and may well be considered the "Psycho" of 1962. Strictly for adults, the film contains daring dialogue interrogations and shocking depiction of clinical references to sexual behavior.

Glynis Johns portrays Jane,
a woman under psychoanalysis, and Dan O'Herlihy is Dr.
Caligari. His unusual make-up and change of character interjects a schizophrenic personality into the mystifying developments of the film. The famous old masterpiece of horror, brought here from Germany 40 years ago, is a fascinating study in "artefactue surrealism," particularly as Jane is made to suffer the pangs of memory. Comment: horrifying.

IT'S NEW

To Us

GOT AN OLD FUR?
 Make it New. On a recent safari through the attic, we came upon an old squirrel
 with its boots on, you might say. It had once been tossed carelessly across a grandmother's shoulders in the days when ladies wore squirrel across their shoulders, but it was no longer what it had been. Grandmother still is, but she's now wearing a mink stole.
 Well, anyway, the moral of this tale the squirrel tail —
 is that elderly and retiring furs can be restyled and renewed by Knauer's, the fur salon in New Brunswick. Late summer is a fine time to have this work done because then you'll be ready with a "new"
 fur piece when the first crisp days come.
 The shop is located at 5
 Livingston Avenue, off George Street, and the phone is CHarter 7-2010.

Take your fur garment to the shop and let the design and fur experts look it over.
 If the fur is so badly worn that it cannot be revived, Knauer's will tell you so and spare you the cost of restyling. If, however, the fur can be re-fashioned, Knauer's will show you sketches, fashion books and canvas models so that you can decide what you want. The shop's experts will advise you about the kinds of fur pieces which can be most successfully made from your particular fur — not every kind of fur is suitable for every garment.
 For example, you may decide on that new version of the stole called the bubble cape in which the skins are worked vertically instead of horizontally, as in a stole. You may prefer a boa to wear with a suit or a fall dress.

If necessary, your old fur will be re-dyed and in any case, it will be cleaned and refurnished so that the old squirrel hardly knows himself.
 Before the work begins,
 Knauer's will give you a pre-

PRINCETON READS HEAVY
 But Carries Light. When Princeton residents go off on vacation, they take with them books that are heavy in content and light on purse and bag.
 That's the consensus at Male's, where pre-vacation sales have been heavy in, let's say, the novels of C. P. Snow (scarcely frivolous reading),
 many of which are available
 in light-weight paperback editions.

Theodore White's, "The Making of a President" is now 95 cents paperback, and so is "Le Journal de Anne Frank" if you want to hone down your French.

"Lord of the Flies," has been a top-seller for some time and now you can have William Golding's "Pincher Martin," written after "Lord of the Flies" and quite as shattering in its total effect.

On the hard cover side,
 Male's recommends Herbert Gold's "The Age of Happy Problems" in which the author explores teaching, writing, love, marriage and work, drawing his title from the remark
 of a TV producer that TV audiences wanted "happy stories about happy people with happy problems."

Walter Kerr's "Decline of Pleasure" is certainly appropriate for a vacation, and if you don't have time to read it,
 you are a living example of Mr. Kerr's thesis.

Dear Princeton:

Having a glorious time! A letter just cannot tell you adequately about our wonderful experiences. Each day is better just cannot tell you. For the first time in our lives, we are living entirely day by day, with each morning starting a whirl of new explorations, and discoveries.

Last week's letter ended with our stay in Hanover. We went from there for a "one night stand" in Moersbier. But that evening we were all tired and as a result the concert was only fair.

Morning call was at 4:15. We slept as much as we could on the bus and the plane flight to Amsterdam, but were still exhausted when we met our families in the Hague. However, most of us were able to sleep that afternoon, by night had fully recovered, and that night gave one of our best performances.

The Dutch people were really touched by the fact that we had learned their national anthem (which is written in old Dutch). They loved Marcus Ramsey's introductory speech in Dutch — she had been an A.P.S. student in Holland a year and a half ago. Travis Bryant and Carol Widman gave their best performances in the "Magnificat". We are proud to report that we received our first standing ovation.

Our reception in the homes was just as warm as that from our audience. There is not time or space to describe all the events of those few days as the experiences for each of us were entirely different.

The main difference between the families in Hanover and The Hague was that those in Holland seemed much more informal about our presence. The Germans seemed to feel that it was terribly important that our every whim be satisfied.

They seemed to be ingrained with the idea that the impression they made would compose our total impression of them. The Dutch were much more casual. We were accepted as members of the family, and our wants were respected but not at "just any cost".

Staying in the families in Hanover and The Hague was most interesting but also "taxing" on our members were confronted by such questions as "What do you think of The Hague?" "How many people were electrocuted in the United States in the past year?" and "How many children does Robert Kennedy have?"

Unfortunately, not all of them could be answered. In the Hague as in Hanover, we lived a life in a city apartment — a life new and different to many of us. All the people would have liked to have private homes in the suburbs but few of them could afford it. Actually the cities are very nice — extremely clean. This is rather surprising as there is no enforcement of things like discarding litter out of windows. There are many bikes and motor scooters and water and flowers are everywhere.

One thing we have observed in the limited travelling we have done is that the position of European women (German and Dutch at least) seems to be purely a domestic one. The mothers spend the entire day at homecleaning, cooking and taking care of the children, leaving only to shop — a daily chore, as many homes do not have refrigerators.

In the Hague, the most amusing incident happened with the exception of the guide from Study Abroad, our chaperones always sleep at a hotel — separate from the Youth Hostel where we are. Perhaps because it was the only room available, Miss Burke and Miss Kaplan were given the bridal suite.

The bed was covered with a magnificent canopy. Above the head of the bed was a little witch-lizard with which they could turn off the lights, turn on a small pale yellow light and illuminate an array of "twinkling stars" scattered on the wall. We still kid them about this.

On Monday, June 25, we toured Amsterdam by motor launch and had the opportunity to pass a short hour in the beautiful Ryksmuseum. At 6:10 we flew to Brussels.

We were booked to stay in a youth hostel but the chaperones felt the accommodations were extremely inadequate. The girls were moved to a hotel, but the boys were left behind to "rough it". We stayed there for two nights but there were only one full day. Most of this was devoted to resting and to making another tape of the Webber for the Brussels radio.

The morning that we left, Le Tour de France passed through Brussels. We drove to Cologne and that night sang at the Music Academy. There could not have been more than 100 in the audience but the high level of their musical education and appreciation made up for the shortage in number. They were most interested in hearing us sing the Webber Cantata.

Immediately after the concert, we attended a reception in our honor at the Town Hall. The Lord Mayor had not been able to come to our performance because he is rambling with re-election, but he toasted and our singing, warmly of us.

We were allowed to see the ruins of the Governor's Palace from Roman times. They are preserved in the cellar of the Town Hall. This was their original location but they had not been discovered until 1954.

Thursday was our longest and most scenic day. We travelled by bus along the Rhine from Köln to Karlsruhe. The scenery was magnificent. We saw our first electric standing majestically on the green mountain tops. In the late afternoon we had a chance to explore the Heidelberg Castle. What a wonderful trip we are having! What an opportunity we have — to see Europe, not as American tourists, but as American representatives. And to do it with a group of friends our own age. We are all extremely proud of our country, Princeton and our tour. We have many memories to cherish. Just two short weeks until we see you...

It's New To Us

Mr. Male himself likes to recommend to his men customers, or at least to his male customers, "Catch 22," one of the best books published since the shop opened, according to partner Roderic Zweig. It's a kind of good word-mouth publicity.

For every recommendation, "The Reivers," that new Faulkner book apparently written by people who can't quite wet their feet in straight, 100-proof Faulkner. It's a delightfully amusing Huck Finn kind of volume.

"Muntu," by Janheinz Jahn explores the new African culture with insight and depth, and to give you an idea of the depth, the paperback edition is $2.45.

Keep an eye out for ANTA's collection of 40 cent and 50 cent one-set plays, including "3 Comedies" ("I Remember Mama," "Life With Father," "You Can't Take It With You"), "3 Dramas of Realism" ("Idiot's Delight," "Street Scene," "The Time of Your Life"), and so on. Might be fun to see some of these revived as a kind of derisive-garde theatre.

THE COTTON IS DARK

For Summertime, Charcoal blue dacton and cotton. Sooner folks the matrix of a splendid little three-piece summer and fall suit even now ready for you at 18th Century Boquet and Boutique on State Road.

The skirt is straight, the round necked buttoned jacket is lined with bright red dacton and cotton. The skirt is soft, texture almost like batiste. There is a bright red sleeveless blouse with lummy collar that peaks out over the rita of the rock-line.

A similar suit has a tweedy texture and is a two-piece. Above the straight skirt is a free-hanging jacket with raglan sleeves that strike the elbow, and a lining of olive, dull gold and silver blue stripes that makes a reversible jacket to wear with the deep olive skirt.

Another suit, this time a dress, is made of deeply muted rust and avocado, designed with a drawstring waist and a round skirt. A piping of red goes around the neck and down a bit to provide a track for our self-beliefs.

Red stitching enlivens a deep navy blue skirt, dress with red belt and slash pockets, and six bronze pennies. A dress that has short sleeves, a round neck and a fabric combination, red-brown and a solidated green.

One of 18th Century's most exciting fall dresses is Rembrandt's ensemble of black and white silk and wool, lined with a short-sleeved, round-necked and a jacket cut with stand-away collar, buttoned, raglan sleeves and a delicious cantoloupe silk lining.

Another ensemble is the royal blue Italian knit with white short-sleeved overblouse and narrow white piping at the cardigan closing. The blue in this one is splendidly rich with a bruised forehead and the driver, Mrs. Bush, who sustained abrasions of the left leg and right arm. Lorene Bush, age 3 months, who had fallen off the seat, was not injured.

A cyclist, Isaac Menasche, 838 William Street, was knocked to the roadway last Wednesday morning when he ran into a Borough truck driven by Nathan Sullivan, 5 Harris Road. Isaac received abrasions of the left elbow and abdomen. Police report that Isaac was riding the wrong way on one-way Charlton Street and ran straight into the front wheel of the truck traveling on Nassau Street. The young cyclist left nine feet, eight inches of skid marks on the pavement. His bike was demolished.

GROVERS CELEBRATE
60th Wedding Day Marked.
Mr. and Mrs. George Grover, 610 Chestnut Street observed their 60th wedding anniversary Tuesday surrounded by children, grandchildren, great-grandchildren and friends. Life-long residents of Princeton, they were guests of honor at a picnic held at the home of their son Raymond, of 33 Chestnut Street.

"The way we both feel today," Mrs. Grover said, "we might go on for another 60 years!"

It was a day for looking back Mrs. Grover, 78, of the former Mary Grethel, had attended Miss Stevens School at 19 Alexander Street, Miss Rose Wren, 818 North Main Street and the public school. She went as a bride to live at the Grover farm, where Princeton Hospital is now located. "Things weren't so easy those days," she recalls. "Coal fire and no electric irons and things like that." She taught Sunday School at Trinity Church, and "I've been a great sewer in my time."

Mr. Grover, now 83, used to walk to Hopewell every Fourth of July to play in the annual baseball game and walk home again. The Grovers also farmed the land where the Graduate School now stands.

Mr. Grover built the pond behind the Princeton Inn and developed Lake Carnegie. His farming days over, he became a taxi driver in the community.

The Grovers had five children. Helen, now Mrs. E. W. Lugnbuhl of Princeton, 410 Hightstown Road, and Raymond, now Mrs. E. W. Lugnbuhl of Princeton, 410 Hightstown Road, and six great-grandchildren.

In summing up, the bride of June 1902 offers warm-hearted advice to the brides of June 1962: "Take the bitter with the sweet," she says.

SIX ARE FINE

In Traffic Court, six motorists were fined in traffic court, three in the Township and three in the Borough.

Daniel S. Utman, 17 Cherry Brook Drive, Hopewell, was fined $20 and had his license suspended for ten days for Township Magistrate James S. Hill for careless driving. Donald H. Koch, 27, 300 Ewing Street, was fined $20 for a "stop" sign violation, and George P. Holmes, 67, 165 Witherspoon Street, was fined $15 for passing a school bus that was unloading.

George R. Carver, 57, 42 Shaftsbury Avenue, Hopewell, was fined $12 for passing a red light by Borough Magistrate Theodore T. Tams, Jr. Walter A. Rosenbaum, 24, 415-A Butler Avenue, was fined $15 for a late inspection violation. He pleaded not guilty to an earlier charge for the same violation which he failed to pay in time and was fined $10. Charles T. Waters, 42, 128 N. Main Street, Cranbury, was fined $5 for the same offense. He pleaded not guilty.

In criminal court, Mrs. Doris Netter, 48, 114 Witherspoon Street, was sentenced to 30 days in the Mercer County Workhouse by Magistrate Tams for fighting with Mrs. Irene Ellerbe, 35, 108 Witherspoon Street, in front of Allen's Green Tavern on Witherspoon Street. Mrs. Ellerbe was fined $25.

Both pleaded not guilty and each was the complainant against the other. Mrs. Ellerbe required 10 stitches to close cuts on her nose and forehead she received after being struck in the face with a broken glass wielded by Mrs. Netter.

David A. Dean, 38, 30 Mercer Street, was sentenced to 90 days in the Workhouse as a "Peeping Tom." He pleaded not guilty.

He was discovered by neighbors peering into a ground floor window of the home of Michael Perna, 138 Linden Lane, at 1 a.m. Police said they found Dean still peeping when they arrived moments later.

CHARGED WITH FRAUD
Against MacDonald Mathey.
A designer and builder of ice skating rinks has been arraigned in General Sessions Court in New York, charged with having obtained $111,034 by fraud from MacDonald Mathey of the Nassau Club.

Peter Carver, the designer, had been retained to construct a hockey rink for The Hun School, to which Mr. Mathey had contributed $25,000. According to the indictment, Mr. Carver persuaded Mr. Mathey to invest $136,276 in a research project to test the commercial possibilities in portable ice skating rinks.

Mr. Carver is said to have told Mr. Mathey that he was buying equipment, and to have spent $24,382. When Mr. Mathey sought to learn more about Mr. Carver's activities, the designer became evasive. Finally, Mr. Mathey located the Bergen Cour warehouse where the supplies were supposed to be, only to find that the warehouse was empty.

Mr. Mathey had Mr. Carver arrested in Newark in April for the theft of $12,486 and in Freehold for $18,220 and presented the case to the Manhattan district attorney's office. Mr. Carver's business address is on W. 46th Street in New York.

Development Plan. The West Windsor Planning Board has approved the preliminary plans of developer George H. Sands for a Nassau Colonial Park. The land, comprising 47 lots, is located on the Clarksville-Highstown Road.

The board's approval was granted subject to the stipulations of the Township Engineer. Preliminary plans for the projected Mill Road plans were not submitted by the developer.

At Princeton Playgrounds. Some 1400 children have registered at Borough and Township playgrounds during the first week this summer, according to C. Edward Christian, director of the community-wide program. Story-telling, a project of the Public Library, directed by Mrs. Fred Shorter, also got off to a successful start with more than 300 children attending the sessions at the playgrounds.

Here and there among the playgrounds during the first week of operation, Valley Road—Anthony Bailey won on the dash event of children 8 to 10 while Eddie Vernon won the same event for children 9 to 11. Older winners in the dash were Caroline

In a further effort to vary the scope of the exhibit, invitation section of year will represent artists contemporary work this from outside the Princeton area with the stipulation that artists who have shown paintings in both the previous festivals cannot again be included because of limitations of space.

Mrs. Augustus K. Mills will serve as general manager; Mrs. Robert P. Wright as vice-chairman; and Mrs. Roland T. Ely as chairman of the Loan Exhibition. The festival will again benefit the Miss Fine's Scholarship Fund.

THIS NATION UNDER GOD? The decision of the Supreme Court banning non-sectarian prayer in New York public schools has created much controversy. For the opinion of the Rev. Robert Cope (left) and the Rev. E. Hugh Liffiton and others, see below.

Question of the Week

Question: What is your opinion of the Supreme Court's ruling barring non-sectarian prayers in public schools?

Where asked: Palmer Square

Rev. Dr. Richard Luecke, minister, Lutheran Church of the Messiah: The Supreme Court ruling makes appeal to the "establishment" clause of the First Amendment, judging
a prayer composed by public officials and read by publicly-financed teachers in public classrooms to have an "establishing" character. This ruling does not mean the "disestablishment" of religion in this country but only a legal safe-eguarding of all religions—including that of not speaking of God at all. People of many faiths may take heart from this judgment. It takes a stand against religious "imperialism" of many sorts in the public schools. It identifies "public school religion" or "religion in general" as something to be reckoned with. And it gives a fresh charter to families, synagogues and churches to train their own young in the proper sources and the full implication of their faith.
Faith isn't really expressed by standing to say a 22-word, offensive prayer at the beginning of the day. It even seems a kind of denial of faith to pretend that it is.

Rev. E. Hugh Liffiton, minister, Second Presbyterian Church: Personally, it seems to me that the President made a very wise observation in saying that the Court's ruling should encourage every family to pray more at home. I know a lot of people will feel otherwise, but I feel it is one of the few positive and constructive statements made in a difficult area. I personally question the worth of a 22-word prayer at the beginning of school day. If it isn't backed up by a religious home life, I don't think it counts very much, really. If the teachers are atheistic in their attitude toward religion, then I don't think it would count for anything.

Rev. Robert L. Cope, minister, Unitarian Church: I think it was an eminently wise ruling. I completely agree with the majority opinion of Justice Black. I think in a democratic and pluralistic society, religious training and observance must be a matter for the home and church.

Rev. Donald M. Meisel, minister, First Presbyterian Church: I believe that this decision by the Supreme Court is an overreact or literal interpretation of the Constitution made without sufficient regard to the large part which the worship of, and dependence upon, God have played in the history of this country from the beginning. The logic of the decision would prevent any mention of God in matters pertaining to the State and in all public gatherings.
The Court's decision could have beneficial results, however, if it jolts church families into the realization that prayer and instruction in all religious sensitivities are the primary responsibility of the family and the family's church and that the school never can,

with or without prayer, be delegated anything like a significant role in the realm. The decision does also guard against both the perfunctory or routine approach to prayer in the classroom or school assembly and any tendency in the direction of the identification of God with any one State. Nevertheless, I do not favor the decision.

Rev. Charles W. Marker, minister of Princeton Methodist Church: I think, in general, it is a good thing to separate religion from schools as far as instruction is concerned.
On the other hand, I think this is one more indication of a secularizing tendency in our society. I don't know if the decision, in itself, to ban prayer is of less significance than what it implies—that, little by little, we are surrendering the traditions that have been considered a way of our life. I do know that we are bending over-backwards to separate church and state in a manner our founder fathers never intended. To be consistent with the decision we would have to stop saying "this nation under God," and the flag salute. In other words, I feel religious instruction in a school is out of place but to ban non-sectarian prayers is a concession to secularism.

Rev. Edward C. Henry, St.
Paul's Roman Catholic Church: The decision of the Supreme Court in declaring a simple and voluntary prayer
as unconstitutional is indeed regrettable. However, the decision points out the ridiculous result when overemphasis is placed on separation of church and state.

John L. Childs, 131 Laurel Circle, retired Columbia University professor: I think it was overdue. I feel that some religious forces have been millions of us used to overthrow of: traditional doctrine of the separation of Church and State.

Mrs. Maureen Schaeffer, 25
Mason Street, housewife:
Basically, I agree with the decision. My main reason for agreeing is that there is no place for government regulation in matters of religion and conscience. However, I think it reveals an inconsistency in American thinking. The problem is that we have a Constitution which provides for a state that is basically Christian in its thinking and tradition.
You can't make anyone pray
in school and yet you have this Constitution that is basically Christian. I think it reveals a deeper problem other than just whether we make our children pray in public school or not. It is something this country definitely has to resolve—and soon.

W. Douglas Smith, Belle Mead, attorney: I think the Court has lost the sense of its purpose. Its purpose isn't to take religion out of the

is no. freedom of religion.
Robert S. Albahary, Skilman, psychiatrist: I support it fully in every respect. I don't understand such an adverse reaction to the decision because I don't feel anybody's religion is threatened or will be threatened in the future.
On the contrary, I feel it protects everybody's right to profess his or her religious beliefs. It keeps the separation of the state and religion and I feel it should be maintained
as a strict separation. Since

THE STAR MEANS A BRANCH BANK: If banking authorities give their approval, Princeton Bank and Trust will open a branch office in Princeton Township at the juncture of Route 206, Mt. Lucas Road and the Mt. Rose-Rocky Hill Road. It is scheduled for completion next July.

BUSINESS In Princeton

BANK PLANS BRANCH
In Township. Princeton Bank and Trust plans to build a second branch in Princeton Township, subject to approval by state and Federal banking officials.

The proposed branch will be built on the peninsula of land formed by Route 206, Mt. Lucas Road and the Mt. Rose-Rocky Hill Road. The eight-acre tract has extensive frontage on all three roads, and lies within the Township's commercial zone at the extreme northern part of the municipality. Montgomery Township is across the boundary. The land will be purchased from Dr. Cornelia Laynes.

In the new office structure, Princeton Bank and Trust will offer drive-up windows, consumer credit offices, electronic bookkeeping equipment and a large parking lot.

Announcing the expansion, George R. Cook, III, president of the bank, said that an independent survey made for the bank showed that the area's greatest growth in residential and commercial construction had occurred within a three-mile radius of the Jaynes property, and that the survey showed the growth to be continuing at a rapid rate.

Princeton Bank and Trust established its first branch in 1954 in the Township at the Princeton Shopping Center and later acquired, by merger, the offices it maintains in Hopewell. Both will remain in operation after the new building has been completed.

If the required approvals are obtained—and the bank believes that they will be—the Route 206 office will be ready next July.

again. I can't understand why individuals feel so threatened by something which is legally, ethically, and morally correct.

Mrs. William Bonhron, Great Road, housewife, I'm in favor of the Court's decision. I believe in prayer but I feel it should be done at home or in church. I agree wholeheartedly with the idea of the separation of church and state.

Maxwell Luria, 12 Regatta Row, graduate student, English: I am very much in favor of it. It seems to me that it isn't any business of the state to legislate prayers for children or for anyone else.

Court is asserting a distinction between church and state in our country.

Richard Winterbottom, 12, 80 Erdman Avenue, Little Brook School: I think it should be banned. It might be offensive to a lot of people because they might use a prayer that did not feature their religion, and it might be offensive, too, to those who are not religious. To a lot of children in school, I don't think it would mean much because I feel they could get more out of other activities. I don't see how they could have time to concentrate on prayer in school. I think people should pray at home or alone when they can feel inside what it means to them.

David Hughes, Route 27, Kingston, graduate student, political science: I approve. I'm very much in favor of the separation of church and state, and it seems to me if you are going to have a separation, it is going to have to be all the way. If you accept prayers in schools, then you are going to have to accept a lot of other things.

Hayward Alker, 7 Hardin Road, graduate student, political science: I believe the Supreme Court's action is consistent with the Constitution and therefore the proper action to be taken, if anyone is in disagreement with it, is to move for a Constitutional amendment. And I must say that the Congressmen who seem to be making a big thing about it and how terrible the Court is are those who have not excelled in other areas of Congressional activity. I approve of Emanuel Celler's defense of the Court.

TO FINISH IN AUGUST.
On 206 Pipe-Laying. Public Service expects to complete in July-August the pipe-laying operations that have torn up segments of Route 206, north of Princeton, since late April. The company has been laying pipe to accommodate the Hercules Powder Co. Company plant in Rocky Hill and the 74-house development of Princeton Ridge, also in Rocky Hill.

The longest stretch of pipe is a 12,400-foot segment of 16-inch welded steel gas main which is being laid on Route 206 through Princeton Township, Montgomery Township and Rocky Hill. In addition, workers are laying a 2,400-foot 12-inch main on Washington Street in Rocky Hill and 700 feet of 4-inch main on Crescent Avenue, where the Hercules plant is located.

Public Service has also been installing 1,320 feet of 8-inch main along Ewing Street in Princeton for homes in that area.

The 206 installations have presented a traffic problem to Princeton Township police who have asked Public Service to keep their equipment and operations as far along the road shoulder as possible; however, the shoulder is narrow and there is a steep ditch, so that much of the heavy-duty equipment must remain on the road itself.

CLAM BAKE TO BE HELD
In Blawenburg. The Montgomery Township Volunteer Fire Company No. 2 will hold its annual clam bake Saturday, July 14, from noon until 5.

The affair will be held rain or shine, at Johnson Moore's Grove on Spring Hill Road, located just off of Route 518 about halfway between Blawenburg and Hopewell. Ronald Simpson and Donald Perkins are co-chairmen of the committee in charge.

Reservations are not necessary, but it is requested that tickets be purchased in advance if possible. Additional information and tickets are available through James Davidson at WA 1-8665.

PLAYGROUNDS ARE OPEN

In Lawrence Township. Playgrounds located at Egberts Crossing, Eldridge Park School, Lawrence Junior High, Lawrenceville Public School and Slackwood School in Lawrence Township are now open from 9:30 to 4 Monday through Friday.

The tennis courts at Lawrence Junior High and one court and tennis backboard at Lawrenceville School will be made available. Arrangements for tennis instruction and reservations may be made through the instructor at the above sites.

RAIN SLOWS ACTION

In Business Softball. The wet month of June caused a variety of postponements, which resulted in numerous rescheduling problems in the Princeton Business Softball League. Last week, for example, Tuesday's full league game slate was washed off by the inclement weather, with only two previously-rained out contests being staged on one of the few dry evenings.

Industrial Reactor Laboratory and Gulton Ortholog were the winners, defeating, respectively Opinion Research, 3-0, and Columbian Carbon, 12-3. The results did not affect the standings of the top three first division teams, all of which were kept idle by the rain, but Gulton's triumph enabled it to climb into a fourth-place tie with Electro-Mechanical Research.

Charlie O'Neill was the winning pitcher for Industrial Reactor, spacing six hits without difficulty. ORC moved out to a short-lived 2-0 lead on the basis of a first inning triple by John Ballman, who hit safely twice thereafter.

The victors were paced by Ken Strable with four hits, three of them home runs. Ray Gunnick, Herb Smith and Joe Williams all collected three safeties for Industrial Reactor.

A last inning, bases-filled rally by Columbian Carbon fell short with the winning run on first to give Gulton Ortholog the 12-10 verdict—its first victory in its last three games. A six-run opening round kept the victors on top all the way. Ron Kline picking up the win. Mike Melore had a perfect night at the plate for the losing team with a five-for-five performance.

The standings:

TITLES WON
In Junior Tennis Play. Ability to defeat an opponent who had eliminated her in an earlier tournament won the title for Penny Griswold last week in the tennis tournament for girls 18 and under. She defeated Gretchen Taylor in a draw-out three-set battle, 3-7, 2-6, 6-4.

In the tournament for girls 15 and under a fortnight ago, Gretchen had ousted Penny in the semi-finals, going on to win that event. Other entries in the tournament for girls under 18 were Louise Meller, Vicki Skibbins, Marjorie Raubitschek and Lissi Stevenson.

John Perkins topped last year's victor, Sherman Winters, 6-4, 6-3, to take the tournament for boys 18 and under. In the semi-finals, Winters beat Don Coppinger, 6-2, 6-0, and Perkins eliminated George Smith, 6-3, 6-1.

Other entries were Joe Smith, Don Sieja, Dave Rus-smith, Don Trader, Jack McCarthy, Randy Hobler, Dave Tibbels, Pete Dumps, Ferdie Wandelt, Shawn Tulley, Bruce Tyler, Gary Grover, Ken Kraft, Steve Bussard and Tom Tucker.

Women's singles play has started, with the men's singles scheduled to begin Monday. Registration for the latter event may be made at the University courts or the YMCA office by Saturday noon.
